

Teaching Aids (Provided): TRD

Concept- Value Connection:

An informal letter is usually written to a family member, a close acquaintance, or a friend to learn about their well-being and also share our love and care with them.

Type: Activity

Notes to the teacher: Teacher can read the letter or write it on the board for the children

18, ABC Avenue
Delhi,
27th March, 2023

Dear Kiran

I hope you are doing well. I received your letter and read it. Thanks for your compliment and for admiring me for taking care of my things well. I used to be very careless, not taking care of my things at all. I would lose my pens, pencils, and erasers in school every other day. My parents were worried about me being so careless and not being responsible.

My father gifted me a very costly pen that he could afford for my birthday. I liked it so much that I ensured that I would not lose it and was careful about it. My mother was happy to see me becoming more careful and expressed it to my father. My father called and told me that this change was because of the value of the pen and my liking for it. He said that it is natural for any person to misplace or lose things, and it was not carelessness but about the value we give to a thing or a person.

He said that we would be careful about the things we value most. Carelessness is only shown in what we don't value. He advised that in our lives, we need to value everything and not take anything for granted. If we value our health, then we will be very careful about what we eat. If we value our friends, then we will be careful to treat them with respect. If we value our time, we will be careful not to waste it. If we value our money, we will be careful when spending it.

What my father advised really made an impact on me. I became very responsible and careful, not only in taking care of things but also with people around me.

I am sure that sharing this advice will surely help you become more careful and responsible with everything and everyone you come across.

Take care
Loving friend
Dinesh

Points to reflect upon:

Students! It is very important we care and show our love with our dear ones who stays away:

It helps us keep a good relationship with them.

It makes them feel happy.

It brings about positive change in the person who receives it.